ITS MY

STORY!

"The Fisherman Piping"

One day a fisherman had a new idea for how he might catch fish. He thought that he took his flute to the riverbank and played a jolly tune, the fish might hear the music and come to the surface and dance making it easy for the fisherman to catch them.

So, he began to play one merry tune after another, but not a single fish put so much as its nose out of water. The fisherman gave up, laid down his flute, and went back to his old method of just casting his net into water.

To, his astonishment, when he drew the net in it was heavy with fish. Then the fisherman took up his flute and played again, and as he played, the fish flipped and flapped in the net.

"Ah, you dance now when I play," said he.

"Yes," replied an old fish, "now we have no choice."

"When you are in a person's power you must do as they bid."
